

A man is sitting on a piece of gym equipment in a brightly lit gym. Overlaid on the right side of the image is a collage. At the top of the collage is the word 'MAGNETO' in large, white, block letters. Below the text are several small images: a vertical strip of five brain scan images, a man in a white shirt performing a physical task, a man in a white shirt performing another task, and a man in a white shirt performing a third task. At the bottom of the collage are three more images: a man in a black vest performing a task, a man in a black vest performing another task, and a man in a black vest performing a third task. The website address 'www.magneticman.com' is written in white text at the bottom right of the collage.

Mirosław Magola portrayed a new version of the character Magneto in Stan Lee's Superhumans a documentary television series that debuted August 5, 2010 on History.
